Russian Ducal Party Decide Japanese War
Must Be Brought To Close At Once.

POWERS ARE BEING PLACATED NOW

Representatives of The Czar Have Visited Officials In Paris, With Idea Of Obtaining Favorable Terms.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]

London, Feb. 7.—The Chronicle correspondent at St. Petersburg says: "The recent Russian reverse in Manchuria has caused the grand ducal party to review the whole situation, and the result has been a decision in favor of peace."

"The Russian representatives in Paris have been instructed to take such steps as may be deemed advisable to secure the good will of the English government with the object of obtaining the most favorable terms from Japan."

"The visit which Count Benckendorff paid to the czar last week has a material bearing on the situation. The Russian ambassador to the court of St. James received similar instructions to those sent to the czar's representatives in Paris."

Considerable speculation has been caused here by the fact that the Russian government on Monday assumed control of the Siberian telegraph lines from 8 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. It is said to be the first occasion on which telegraph communication has thus been stopped since the war began. Various possible causes are discussed, such as the extension of the strike and important correspondence with Gen. Kourapatkin.

FIND PLOT AGAINST LIFE OF THE CZAR NICHOLAS

Nicholas Himself Discovers The Information
That He Is To Be Killed
Soon.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]

Berlin, Feb. 7.—The Tageblatt reports a plot against the czar's life was discovered by Emperor Nicholas himself. His Majesty was walking through the corridors of the Tsarsko Selo yesterday, when he noticed a letter addressed to himself lying on the floor. He picked it up and found that it contained an announcement that twelve men had sworn to kill him in revenge for the St. Petersburg massacre of January 22d. The letter caused an unbounded excitement throughout the palace. Elaborate precautions were immediately taken to protect the czar, who has not left the palace since. The same paper announces that more fighting has occurred at Warsaw between the troops and strikers in which several were killed and many wounded.

pire, was arrested Monday by the assembly of nobles of St. Petersburg. The address begins by congratulating the czar on the birth of an heir to the throne and assures him that the union between the autocratic monarch and his devoted nation is unshaken by recent events at home and abroad, points out that officials and statesmen can not solve all questions and begs his majesty to permit of representatives of the whole people participating in the discussion and legislation on government measures.

OFFICIAL IS SLAIN.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 7.—The campaign of assassination threatened by the revolutionists has begun. The news of the assassination of Soisson Soisson, procurator general of Finland, though occurring before noon on Monday, was not generally known in St. Petersburg Monday night, but may be expected to produce an immense sensation when it becomes public, as it will be regarded as the precursor of an era of terrorism for which the events of January in St. Petersburg and throughout Russia gave the signal.

Until the identity of the assassin is definitely known it will be impossible of course to establish the motive of the attempt, but the present circumstances in Finland render it almost certain that the crime is of a purely political character and of the same nature as the assassination of Count Bobrikoff, the governor general of Finland, in June of last year.

RAILWAY BILL TO GO THROUGH

Townsend-Esch Measure Will Be Approved By
The House on Thursday Next.

THE AMENDMENTS ARE SHUT OUT

Rule Adopted by Party Vote Forces Members To Decide
Between Majority And Minority Bills
Without Alteration.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]

Washington, Feb. 7.—Next Thursday afternoon the house of representatives will pass the Townsend-Esch bill to regulate railroad rates in the form in which it was reported from the interstate commerce committee. No amendments can be considered by the house under the rule adopted Monday, its choice being limited to the Townsend-Esch or the Davey bill reported by the Democratic minority. It is expected that the house will divide on party lines on the Davey bill, which is stronger than the Townsend-Esch bill. Then the question will be upon the passage of the Townsend-Esch bill and upon that the vote of the house will be practically unanimous.

Prohibits Amendments.

A strong effort was made by the Democrats to prevent the adoption of the rule prohibiting amendments. Two roll calls were read. Upon the first the vote was 171 to 148 and upon the second 166 to 140. The Democrats voted solidly against the adoption of the rule with the exception of Mr. Gaines of Tennessee, who went over to the Republicans, Southwick and Vreeland of New York, voted with the Democrats. The insurgents under the leadership of Mr. Davis of Mississippi, who have been threatening to "bolt" their party caucus and line up with the Democrats in support of a "strong bill," remained loyal to their party leaders and shut off all amendments by supporting the rule.

Democrats Are Satisfied.

Representative Williams of Mississippi, leader of the minority, made a strong speech. He explained that the purpose of the recent Democratic caucus was to force action upon railroad legislation. "We have accomplished our object," he said. "If you will permit us to offer three amendments to the Townsend-Esch bill we will not ask for a minute of debate and will not ask for a vote upon the Davey substitute."

The amendments Mr. Williams demanded were to give the commission power to substitute a rate for the one declared off; to make that rate operative until set aside by final judgment of a court, and to base appeal or review to a court upon evidence adduced before the interstate commerce commission.

After the adoption of the rule Mr. Townsend of Michigan, one of the authors of the measure, explained the merits of the bill, and was followed by Mr. Richardson of Alabama.

WOULD TAKE THE CAPITOL HOME WITH HIM SHORTLY

State Senator Stevens of Oshkosh Would Remove The State Capitol To That City.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Feb. 7.—A bill was introduced by Senator Stevens of Oshkosh to remove the capitol to Oshkosh, the change to take effect in January 1937. It is pronounced clearly unconstitutional by lawyers, unless the university should also be removed, for the constitution requires that the university shall be situated "at the seat of government." Senator Stevens' bill is not taken seriously here, although he says he is determined to take the capitol home with him.

BUSY DAYS FOR LAW MAKERS NOW

BILLS CONTINUE TO COME IN UPON LEGISLATURE.

THE SENATE IS VERY BUSY

Assembly Has Much to Consider—
New Bills That Are Prominent Come Up.

A railroad commission bill that administration people will doubtless characterize as mild and inadequate, insofar as they may think such a commission necessary at all, was introduced in the senate last night by the leading La Follette democrat of the legislature, Senator Morton. It proposes an elective, rate-adjusting commission, rather than an appointive rate-making body. It provides for the establishment of a railroad commission, designated as the board of railroad commissioners of Wisconsin. It shall be composed of three members, one of whom shall be the present commissioner until the expiration of his term of office. The salary of each member shall be $3,000 a year and a secretary, to be elected by the commission, shall have a salary of $2,000 a year. Clerks and other assistants are provided for. None of the members of the commission shall be in the employ of any railroad, property or securities, or be in any other way connected with or interested in a railroad company. The law prescribes an oath to this effect, to be taken upon the commencement by a member of his term of office. The power to secure information by summoning and examining witnesses and otherwise, is conferred upon the proposed commission, and it is provided that no one may be allowed to escape examination on the "ground that it might tend to incriminate him," but that anyone testifying before the board shall be exempted from prosecution on testimony thus given. The bill declares unlawful any rebates, repayments to shippers as favors, and any discriminations or departures from the regularly published tariffs. When any person is damaged by a violation of the law, he shall have the right to recover three times the amount of the damages. The commission has the power to revise or adjust rates, but only after they shall have been examined and proven upon testimony as in a court trial to be contrary to the terms of the law.

Many Senators Absent
Less than half of the senators were present last night at the time for calling to order and on motion of Senator Randolph the calling of the roll was dispensed with in order that business might proceed in the absence of a quorum.

For Constitutional Amendment
Senator Stoddard provoked smiles and good natured remarks for appearing minus his luxuriant mustache and then introduced a joint resolution for a constitutional amendment to allow the state to grant aid for internal improvements. The measure would permit the state to appropriate for public improvements up to one-third of their cost, the other two-thirds to be paid by the city, town or county desiring the improvement. The amendment would also change the constitution so as to provide that in case of grants to the state for public improvement the state should use any income from such grants for improvements thereon.

Anti-Cigarette Petitions
Senators Hudnall and Wright presented voluminous petitions in favor of Senator Bird's anti-cigarette bill. A number of important bills were introduced, among them the McGilivray architectural commission measure and one by Senator Hatten to increase the appropriation for state aid to graded schools from $60,000 to $80,000 a year. This increase is asked in order that the law may be completely carried out, which provides that graded schools of the first class shall receive $300 a year and those of the second class $200. These schools have multiplied so that the $60,000 was insufficient to carry out the law.

Architectural Commission
Senator McGilivray introduced the architectural commission bill which was so strenuously contested and de-

LAND OF FLOWERS AND SUNSHINE.

California Woman's Letter of Special Interests to People in Janesville.
At this season of the year a letter from the land of flowers and sunshine is of special interest to our readers. The following letter from the Holden Drug Co., of Stockton, Cal., one of the largest drug houses on the Pacific Coast, is of especial interest. They write: "Enclosed is a letter from one of the most prominent residents of this city. She will not allow her name to be published in the newspapers, but we can furnish it to anyone writing us."

The letter is as follows:
"For some four years my daughter has had headaches, which seriously interfered with her school work. Until recently we attributed the trouble to eye strain, but happening to notice your advertisement of Hyomel, we were satisfied that her trouble came from catarrh."

We purchased a dollar outfit, and within twenty-four hours great relief was experienced, and the loosening of mucous matter and the reduction of throat inflammation began. Sixty days' use of Hyomel made nearly a complete recovery, which we consider very satisfactory after nearly four years of expense and fruitless treatment by other methods, and that we feel grateful to be put in mild."

This letter shows that many cases of sickness and debility are simply caused by catarrh and that they can be cured by Hyomel. This is Nature's own method of curing catarrh, medicating the air you breathe. A complete outfit, including the Inhaler, costs but $1, and extra bottles are only 50 cents. Ask People's Drug Co. or King's Pharmacy to show you the strong guarantee under which they sell this remarkable remedy.

feated two years ago. The bill provides that a commission of three experienced architects, of at least ten years' standing in Wisconsin, shall be appointed by the governor to hold examinations and otherwise regulate the profession of architecture. Several provisions are made for salaries, but none of these are to be paid by the state, all being raised by fees from the architects. Senator McGilivray is hopeful of passing the bill this session, claiming that the profession of architecture is far more important than many things now regulated by the state and placed under the supervision of commissions.

Other Senate Bills
Senator Randolph introduced a bill to require life insurance companies to make an annual accounting with their policy holders. A bill introduced by Senator Frear by request proposes to increase the liability of railroad companies in cases of accidents to employees and lessens the liability of injured persons for what is known in law as contributory negligence. Senator Froemming introduced a bill to slightly change the Milwaukee grand jury law, the bill being suggested by the Milwaukee district attorney. Senator Stoddard introduced three bills; one to prohibit the killing of any doe in Wisconsin for five years, one to require the filing of chattel mortgages with the register of deeds and a third to amend the law governing the powers of corporations. The committee on forestry introduced a bill to stop the sale of state lands pending the consideration of the forestry reserve bill. Senator Wipperfurth proposed a bill to provide that the six-year statute for actions for fraud should not begin to run in any case until after the discovery of the fraud.

In the Assembly
Dairy and Food Commissioner John Q. Emery wants more help for his department. Last night Assemblyman Curtin introduced a measure which is intended to give that department the help it needs. The bill provides for a second assistant dairy and food commissioner at a salary of $1,600 per year, another chemist at a compensation of $1,200 yearly and 15 inspectors or agents, who shall be paid $1,200 per annum. The proposed law will greatly strengthen the department and will create much more patronage. Assemblyman Turner is not on the trail of the giant freetracker. Last night he stood sponsor for a bill which provides that no freetrackers shall be sold in the state which are made of dynamite, chlorate of potash or other explosive, except gunpowder, composed of saltpeter or charcoal. The freetracker must be two inches in length or less and not more than three-eighths of an inch in diameter.

Mr. Smelter introduced a joint resolution, which amends section five of article eight of the constitution, relating to the trial by jury in civil cases. In substance the resolution provides that a verdict by a jury of less than 12 persons shall be valid. A resolution was also provided, introduced by Mr. John Scott, which amends section 10 of article eight of the constitution. In brief it provides that the state shall have the right to grant aid in the building of highways. The assembly passed the Lennox bill, relating to corporations, which amends chapter 100 of the laws of 1899. As amended by the committee on the third reading of bills the bill was passed. The Durand resolution, pertaining to the permanent improvement of the upper Mississippi river, was at the request of Mr. Andrew laid over until Thursday. Bill No. 40, Donald, relating to the schoolhouse site in the village of Mt. Horeb, was ordered engrossed and read a third time. The Kinney bill, relative to the establishment of a second municipal court for Dunn county, as amended, was ordered engrossed and read a third time. Mr. Curtin's bill, appropriating money to the Eastern Wisconsin Firemen's association, was ordered read and engrossed a third time. A resolution by Mr. Kinney, providing for the furnishing of 500 copies of the report of bill providing for the establishment of a sanitarium for tuberculosis patients, was adopted. By Mr. Potter, appropriating $150 to the Washington, Ozaukee and North Milwaukee Firemen's association, by Mr. Theyer, providing for the payment of a bounty of $3 on all wolves, wildcats, lynx, etc., and repealing all laws in conflict. By Mr. Curtin, for the registration of cheese manufacturers and brands of cheese. By Mr. Curtin, providing for the state inspection of dairy products and cheese warehouses and curing rooms. By Mr. Huber, relating to the appointment of court commissioners. By Mr. Beedle, defining the liabilities of railroad companies in damages sustained by their employees. By Mr. M. The speaker announced the appointment of the joint commission on legislation, Messrs. Smelter, Carpenter, Warner, Huber and Hagarty. Assemblyman Thayer of Chippewa county, who is a minister of the gospel, offered prayer at the opening of the session. Adjournment was taken until 10 o'clock this morning.

BIDS FOR THE FIRST CARLOAD OF APPLES

Fame of Stanley D. Tallman's Orchard Calls Forth an Order from Chicago Commission Firm.

That the Augusta Welkeke apple-theft-confession-episode is an incident which once closed will not stay shut, is the conviction arrived at by Stanley D. Tallman. He had just about resigned himself to forgetfulness of the whole affair, yesterday, when there arrived at his desk a suspicious looking letter from Chicago. The outer envelope bore the business card of a well-known fruit commission firm. Enclosed was a bid for the first carload of apples that should be grown in the recipient's "celebrated orchard" this fall. Whereupon Mr. Tallman disgustedly expressed the fervent wish that the Chicago Temple of the Burning Bush and all its inmates were somewhere off the map—in Patagonia, for instance.

TREATMENT OF PILES.

Permanence of Cure the True Test

Many so-called pile remedies will afford the user slight temporary relief and the majority of those afflicted do not expect more than this. The average sufferer, after having tried every preparation recommended for the cure of piles, comes to the conclusion that there is no cure except by an operation and rather than undergo this "last resort" he suffers on, resigned to the situation, so far as may be. The attention of those interested is invited to the following experience:

"After ten years of suffering from blind, bleeding and protruding piles and after using every remedy I could hear of without any benefit, I finally bought a fifty-cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure and used it with such good results I bought next a dollar box, which finished up the job. That was nearly six years ago and as far as piles is concerned I am cured, and have never felt a symptom of them since."

"Many others have used this remedy by my advice with the same results and I always recommend it to sufferers of piles." C. H. Potts, Burlington, Kans.

Testimony like this should convince the most skeptical the Pyramid Pile Cure not only cures, but cures to stay cured. It is in the form of a suppository, can be applied in the privacy of the home, directly to the parts affected, and does its work quickly and painlessly.

Druggists generally sell this famous remedy for fifty cents a package and sufferers are urged to buy a package now and give it a trial tonight. Accept no substitutes. A little book describing the causes and cure of piles is published by the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., and same will be sent free to any address for the asking.

Tells of a Story of the Philippines and How Discipline Was Preserved.

By Lieut. Col. J. A. Watrous.
It is a somewhat remarkable fact that no American has taken Gen. Woolsey, the one time distinguished head of the British army, sharply to task for glaringly incorrect and unjust statements made by him in a sketch of the life and career of Gen. Robert E. Lee prepared for an eastern publishing company.

The English general, a military chieftain of great ability, gave Gen. Lee unstinted praise as a man, soldier, commander and Christian. No American can find fault with that, for no one today, north or south, old or young, ex-soldier or civilian, doubts that he was one of the greatest of modern military leaders, or that he was a noble, Christian gentleman. There is no room for discussion in this country on those points. But elsewhere Gen. Woolsey wails, gives excuse for discussion and complaint. He condemns the government for taking possession of the Lee mansion, and the beautiful Arlington Heights grounds. Gen. Lee in his life time, found no fault with that. He expected it would be done. He was too good a soldier, too broad a man, to even suppose that he could become the leading factor in a movement having for its object the overthrow of the government of the United States, and not have his interests endangered; but it seems that Gen. Woolsey held a different view. He makes the false charge that the grounds were stripped of their trees, and the mansion recklessly plundered of the camp equipments and other relics of Gen. George Washington. Some of the trees on the large tract were cut early in 1861 because they were in the way of fortifications constructed for the protection of the national capital, and the equipments and relics of General Washington were removed to the city for safekeeping. They can be seen now in the Smithsonian institution. Was that plundering?

In speaking of the national cemetery on Arlington heights, where 16,000 union and several thousand confederate soldiers are at rest, that being the most beautiful of our eighty odd national cemeteries, a spot visited by all who go to Washington, Gen. Woolsey characterized it as a "wanton conversion of his." (Lee's) playgrounds for a graveyard. That may be characterized as a coarse, heartless remark; one for which let us hope, the English general will some day be ashamed.

If the article had been written soon after the war there might have been a semblance of excuse for the high coloring given, for Woolsey was ardent in his desire for confederate success; but it was written over thirty years after the war, long after the government had paid the Lee heirs a large sum for the property; not, however, because it was under obligations to do so.

It is painfully plain that Gen. Woolsey went out of his way to show his love for the dead confederacy and his dislike for the country that raised his death. Can it be that generations after all others to Great Britain had forgiven Uncle Sam for the revolution, and 1812, that Woolsey alone is still in anger over those events?

There is one other statement in the general's article which merits attention. He spoke of Arlington heights as having "been the cherished home of the father of the United States"—the home of George Washington. It is said to think that there is a civilized man of woman or a child over 19 years of age who does not know that the "cherished home of the father of the United States" was Mount Vernon. It is true that Washington's stepson the father of Mrs. Robert E. Lee, lived on Arlington. I spurn the thought that Mr. Woolsey got Mr. Washington and Mr. Curtis, his stepson, confused in his mind, and at the time he wrote the article in question looked upon the step son as the "father of the United States!"

Lieut. Col. L. W. Cooke of the 20th United States infantry who has had two tours in the Philippines, and is now on recruiting duty in Milwaukee adopted a novel but effective method to stop the use of those villainous, health destroying, lunacy creating brands of oriental liquors the natives were ready to supply to American soldiers for gain. At first the colonel sent the vendors to the guardhouse, but the men continued to get plenty of vinobino and other concoctions that unfitted them for duty and contributed to the insane list. Then he tried fining. On one occasion the fine for each offender was $500 American money. That failed: the soldiers seemed to have no serious trouble to get all the liquor they wanted.

By the merest chance one day four native women were caught in the act of selling their liquor to the men. They were arrested and taken to headquarters. The presence of those four little brown women, big eyed and innocent looking, charged with whole saling and retailing liquor, and such liquor, to Uncle Sam's boys gave the colonel an entirely new proposition. For a moment he was sadly puzzled. A few rods away a barber was plying his trade. Col. Cooke looked at the four culprits, and then at the busy barber. Then he surveyed the four heads of long, black, glossy hair, reaching more than half way to the heels; hair that was as dear to them as the hearts in their left sides.

"Orderly, step over and tell that barber to report to me, fully equipped for business, at once," directed the colonel.

The barber reported, and was directed to give the four female vendors of budge an up-to-date prize fighter haircut, and off came the bountiful crop, and away went the dejected, disfigured, disgraced natives, and they kept on going until they reached a province where they were not known, and went to work in rice fields.

The remedy did the business. The soldiers could not get a drop for love, gold, or greenbacks, and the news was passed on to several other camps where only a threat to shingle the heads of the women barkeeps was necessary to introduce a prohibitive system that would have put Maine to shame in her palmiest days.

Milwaukee is witnessing one of those nauseating exhibitions that are so apt to put in an appearance when a handsome young murderer is imprisoned. Two or three months ago a newly married man, much given to gambling and drinking, to excess, spent a day in a gambling room, became murder drunk, lost all of his money, went home, and because his pretty wife asked for a few dollars with which to buy herself a pair of shoes, brutally shot her to death. If one murder can be more cruel than another, this was the most cruel murder that ever occurred in Milwaukee. The man was found guilty and was given a life sentence. Ever since the trial women have been sending flowers and delicacies to Norton, the murderer in question, and the young wretch seems to think that he merits the attention. Does anyone suppose that those weak, silly women will ever think to place flowers on the grave of the slaughtered Mrs. Norton? Be it said to the credit of the young fiend he expressed a desire to commit suicide. The world would not miss him—the sensible portion of it—the flower bearers might for a time, or until the next wife killer got behind bars.

ILLINOIS "BANKER" IS MISSING
Citizens' of Union, Is Closed With Nearly $15,000 Deposits.
Marengo, Ill., Feb. 7.—The Citizens' bank of Union, a village four miles east of here, has closed its doors, and the whereabouts of the owner of the institution, E. W. Settle, are not known. He left Friday night for Chicago, it is said, to get funds to meet the demands of the creditors. There is nearly $15,000 on deposit. Settle also had banks in Forest, Ill., and in Michigan.

Two Billions for Telephone.
The decision of the authorities of the Bell system to spend about three-quarters of a million dollars in increasing the facilities of the Wisconsin exchanges is said to be one that does not merely consider the present situation but that looks forward at least 15 years. Certainly it is true that nobody else has to forecast the growth of population and the needs of the future as does the telephone engineer. A shortsighted policy today in regard to improvements means endless trouble in the succeeding decades.

If the question of providing for future development depended upon the growth of population alone it would be comparatively easy to settle. After a community has become established its annual increase can be disclosed for a considerable period with approximate certainty. In the case of Milwaukee, for example, on the basis of the showing of the decade from 1890 to 1900 and of the continuing prosperity of the city an investor would be on the conservative side in basing his estimates upon an annual increase in population of four per cent. On that basis the telephone engineer would undoubtedly be justified in calculating that in 1915 the city will be using more telephones than in 1905.

But such a calculation would be based upon the assumption that the ratio of the number of telephones to the population is a constant quantity. As indeed it is not. Nobody knows just what the limit of "saturation"—to use a technical term—of a given territory will be, but a study of the most recent figures dealing with the subject has convinced telephone men that their estimates of the probable growth of the service throughout the country have been far too low. The plans of the engineers of the Bell system for future plants are now being drawn upon the supposition that within a few years there will be in many American cities, and that ultimately there will be everywhere, a ratio of one telephone to every five people.

Just what such a statement means is hard for the layman to realize when it is made abstractly. But to say that it implies an instrument in every other residence and as many more in business houses—this expresses tangibly the situation which we are rapidly coming. Given the present population of eighty million instruments in this country, all connected by great trunk lines and making every man from Maine to Mexico as accessible by telephone as he now is by mail.

Such an equipment with no allowance for growth of population, would, it is estimated, cost an average of $120 an instrument of $1,920,000,000 in all. In other words, if the entire telephone industry were in one control—as logically it must be sooner or later—and if the management had all at once to provide as many instruments with their proper connections as the needs of the country will ultimately demand, then to complete the operations required a capital of about two billion dollars would be needed. Such an amount is equal to more than twice the present indebtedness of the United States government. It is about two thirds of the total deposits of the American people in savings banks. The combined exports and imports of the United States in a year are somewhat less in value. The total valuation of New York city is about one-third greater. To provide the capital for so stupendous an undertaking would be practically impossible if it had to be raised all at once, but fortunately the movement toward saturation, though rapid, allows the telephone companies to go step by step.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; heightens the temper and makes the sufferer soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a Home of Swamp-Root pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonials received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Workmanship That Pays.

Half-finished work will do for amateurs. People who pay for a thing demand thorough work. When you enter the world of trade, you have entered a world where tenderness and charity are foreign relations. "For value received" is the great rallying cry of this busy world.

Education has a double purpose: to enable the individual to gain a livelihood and to make life worth living.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Tuesday, February 7, 1865.—Second Ward Meeting.—There was quite a large meeting of the enrolled men of the Second Ward at the Court Room last evening, but as it was ascertained that money enough to clear the Ward had not yet been raised, a resolution was passed that the time should be extended until tonight, when if there was still a deficiency, those who had subscribed to the fund, should receive themselves into a club for their own protection, and leave those who had not subscribed to take care for themselves. There is to be a grand rally of the Second Ward men at the Court Room tonight.

Cleaning Out of the Shenandoah.—Sheriff Earle and his posse made a descent Sunday night on what he calls "The Shenandoah Valley," up the river and arrested the inmates of the shanty where disreputable characters did congregate. The men, five in number were released on parole; the women were distributed between the jail and the poorhouse, the jail receiving the larger share.

Lost, last evening, on the skating pond near the depot, a section of an ankle supporter to a Blonkin skate. As it is no earthly use to anybody but the owner of the skate, the finder will confer a great favor by leaving it at this office.

The Skating Carnival.—The skating carnival near the depot last evening was a great success. The pond was crowded with ladies and gentlemen and boys and girls. It was a lively scene and an occasion highly enjoyed.

Personal.—We are glad to see in our midst, Capt. H. N. Comstock, who is home from the army on a short leave of absence. The bracing northern air of home will restore him to his usual health.

Town of Harmony Full.—The town of Harmony has furnished its quota of twenty-one men and is out of the draft.

Fourth Ward.—There is another meeting of the Fourth Warders this evening.

A TRIM TURBAN TOQUE

Both for dressy and informal wear these dainty little turbans are still in good standing. The latest productions in this line are longer from back to front and correspondingly narrower than were their predecessors, and the brims are now in almost every instance made a background for quite a little trimming. A fine pale blue satin straw of an intricate weave fashions the hat, and little squares of embroidered white silk mousseline are lavishly used for trimming, both joined together in groups and singly dotted with rows of straw for a framing. The crown is plain, all of the trimming scheme carried out on the brim, and a rosette of white and gold lace braid is centered with rather stiff white wings that stand up well above the crown.

NEW STRONG-BOX FOR POST-OFFICE

Four Inches More of Steel Plate Are Put Between Cash and Stamps and Possible Burglar.

There has recently been installed in the Janesville postoffice vault a small steel safe, for money and stamps, which, for its size, is probably the most expensive and effective piece of mechanism of the kind in this section of the country. Its dimensions are but 30x32x22 inches and it cost $623. The strong-box is built of four layers of one-inch plates and rests upon a shell stand of steel which is used as a case for books and documents. The door and its frame are provided with rubber pads which make it absolutely water-tight. So closely does it fit that the thin edge of a razor could not be wedged in between door and casing. Any possible burglar who got beyond the strong vault would find here a tough proposition indeed. The weight of the little safe is 2,800 pounds. The growth of the government business in this city and the large sums carried from time to time in the office made it advisable to take this additional precaution. Postmaster Nowlan now feels that Uncle Sam's Janesville cash is about as safe as human ingenuity can make it.

Because It's For One Thing Only and Janesville is Learning This. Nothing can be good for anything. Doing one thing well brings success.

Doan's Kidney Pills do one thing only. They are for sick kidneys. They cure backache, every kidney ill.

Here is evidence to prove it. Mrs. George M. Carey of 1020 Pleasant street, Beloit, says: "I could hardly realize that the first box of Doan's Kidney Pills obtained at C. E. Emerson's drug store did me so much good. I used medicines for a time but soon I became as bad as ever if not worse. I suffered from disordered kidneys for four years and the pain in my back was terrible. I could not sleep but at times had to sit up almost the entire night. When rising from a chair I was often compelled to place my hands on the sides of it and raise myself up to keep the strain off my back. I also suffered from the disturbing of my rest at night. After using Doan's Kidney Pills a short time these symptoms left me and since then I have felt well."

Not In The DENTAL COMBINE.

There are two things which I stand for in my practice of Dentistry.

Two principles which interest EVERY person needing Dental work.

They are PAINLESS work and, REASONABLY PRICED work.

To be definite as to price: I am making 22k Gold Crowns for $5 each.

Other Dentists here will have to charge $10. for them, because they belong to the local Dental Society and have agreed together over their written signatures to maintain this price.

Why throw away good dollars when I will give you equal value for half the TRUST prices.

Yours sincerely, F. T. RICHARDS, Dentist

TWO OF A KIND.
The selection of Governor La Follette is regarded as significant, when compared with the selection of other senators. A writer in the Omaha World-Herald says: "Republican leaders have very generally professed to be in sympathy with Mr. Roosevelt's fight against railroad rebates; and yet republican legislatures have gone right along electing to the senate men who are, confessedly, under obligation to the railroads. Montana has elected Tom Carter; Indiana has elected Senator Beveridge and has chosen Congressman Hemenway to succeed Senator Fairbanks; Michigan has re-elected Senator Clapp; Massachusetts has re-elected Senator Lodge and has chosen W. Murry Crane to succeed the late Senator Hoar; New York has re-elected Dewey; Pennsylvania has elected former Attorney General Knox; Utah has elected Geo. Sutherland; North Dakota has re-elected Senator McCumber; Connecticut has chosen former governor Bulkeley; Maine has re-elected Senator Hale. Not one of these gentlemen is in the least obnoxious to the corporation element. It is safe to say that Roosevelt could not depend upon one of them were he to engage in a serious contest with the representatives of special interests, but the president may depend upon La Follette of Wisconsin; and however much La Follette's views on some other questions may differ from the views of democrats, his election to the United States senate will be hailed with joy by every democrat, by every populist, by every republican, by every independent citizen whose sole desire is that the public official shall be a man upon whom the people may confidently depend."—Bryan on La Follette.

"A PLAYED OLD TUNE."
The following letter, which appeared in the New York Herald's Paris edition, December 28th, is interesting reading:
To the Editor of the Herald:—
I was very amused to read in your paper the letter from Sir Howard Vincent complaining about the "Star-Spangled Banner."
I am surprised, Sir, that a titled Englishman should not know that in America no one but our tradespeople ever sings that horribly grotesque song. Our best class considers it inexpressibly vulgar.
Let me assure, Sir Howard that, except among very ordinary persons in America the words of the song are not known. I daresay not one of my friends could repeat more than two lines of it from memory.
Only those assentive, patriotic bourgeois persons in America who so justly excite the ridicule of Englishmen and travelled gentlemen of whatever nationality, rise and uncover when the national anthem is played. The cultured class does not even know any national anthem except "My Country 'tis of Thee," which was so shamelessly stolen from Great Britain.
Sir Howard can rest undisturbed in his very kind desire to promote Anglo-American amity. Our better classes are heartily ashamed of the anti-British sentiment expressed in the words of which he explains.

Mr. Jones evidently parts his hair in the middle. He may not be able to appreciate that old national song but he should remember that whatever respect he may command abroad is due to the emblem to which the song is dedicated.

PRESS COMMENT.
Madison Democrat: As between the elements racing for the official organism it looks powerfully like an eyelash finish.
Chicago Record-Herald: "This," said the author, as he wrote "Finis" to his story, must be real literature. It isn't at all interesting.
Racine Journal: If the Isle of Pines belong to Cuba why not turn it over to her. It either does or does not.
Weyaukege Chronicle: A New Jersey divine solemnly warns young women never to marry a man until they know his past. Here is an insidious attempt to abolish matrimony.
Oshkosh Northwestern: The magazine "How to Make Money" has failed financially, thus showing that the managers knew as little about this secret as most other people.
Green Bay Gazette: The Oshkosh Northwestern editorially inquires "Are women growing profane?" Well, some of them certainly have ample reason to.
Waupaca Post: Bookkeeper T. Washington was refused admission to Wichita, Kansas, hotels. If they are anything like those in Madison, Wisconsin, Bookkeeper T. was in luck.
Menasha Record: It has been suggested that La Follette is needed in Russia. It looks like it. Gee, how he would break up that grand duke's machine and run things himself. All of which shows that a dictator is a good thing in some places.
Exchange: The state of Iowa regulated freight rates by a rate commission years ago and when the regulation was well established there wasn't much left to regulate for the industries had fled to more congenial climes.
La Crosse Chronicle: Tom Lawton's jig was up in a hurry when a discriminating public read his announcements made half a dozen times as many weeks apart that he would furnish the "real sensation" in the "next issue."
Byran's Commoner: If the president leads a reform movement in his party Senator-elect La Follette is likely to be the Roosevelt candidate before the next republican national convention. Wonder if Vice-President-elect Fairbanks has ever thought of this possibility?
Rockford Register-Gazette: They have found two new spots on the sun. Some people never get tired of looking for "spots on the sun" and seem to heat when we are getting it, here below at the rate of 30 below zero.
Wausau Pilot: Robert M. La Follette will now have as much to say about the post-offices and other federal offices as Spooner will, hence the Half Breed element of the party will have an even chance. We learn that several more prominent La Follette followers in Wausau have run up their lightning rods.
Exchange: A young man took his best girl to church last Sunday evening, and stopping at the end of one of the back pews turned to the usher and said: "I guess we can squeeze in here." "Yes," said the usher with a subdued smile, "I guess you can, but probably it would be better for all concerned to wait until you get home."

WEIGHING MERITS OF COUNTY OPTION
Assemblyman Baker of Evansville inquired Here Yesterday Regarding Saloon License System.
To investigate the relationship existing between the tribute money paid by saloons for licenses and the cost to the county of relieving poverty and punishing misdemeanors and crimes traceable directly to the use of intoxicating liquors, was the purpose of a visit paid to the city hall yesterday by Assemblyman A. S. Baker of Evansville. It is expected that there will shortly be introduced into the legislature a bill providing for county option in the matter of licensing saloons in the state of Wisconsin, and Mr. Baker wished to inquire into the matter of saloon licenses before finally deciding what his attitude on the matter should be. The fact that $50 of each $500 license fee paid in Janesville, for instance, goes into the county poor fund and that the revenue so derived by the county is a good sized amount has to be taken into consideration. It furnishes in a measure the counter-argument to the claim advanced by champions of county option that the counties are continually imposed upon by being compelled to help bear the burdens of cities, which themselves being partially or wholly indemnified by the large tribute exacted from the traffic generously allow the larger units of government, not so indemnified, to help pay for some of the evils and abuses arising therefrom. From the standpoint of the no-license advocate such a bill, if it became a law, would almost certainly militate against the will of the majority in the small town that permits no saloons within its gates. For, if the county as a whole declared for license the no-license town would no longer have any choice in the matter. Judging from the opinions expressed by Mr. Baker while here he will be an active opponent to the county option plan, though he is a firm believer in local option and does not approve of licensing saloons.

SUGAR CO. CANNOT GRANT REQUESTS
CAPT. DAVIDSON AND R. G. WAGNER MEET GROWERS.
GO INTO MERITS OF THE CASE
And State the Position From Which They May Not Depart—Growers Meet on February 16.
Capt. James Davidson, owner of the Rock County Sugar plant, and President R. G. Wagner of the Wisconsin Sugar Co., which operates the plant at Monomonee Falls, met yesterday with the executive committee appointed by the Rock County Beet Growers' association at the meeting held in Janesville on Monday, Jan. 16. The object of the conference was to discuss certain concessions which the beet-growers desired the sugar companies to make. The growers' committee was composed of Dr. J. H. Burdick of Milton Junction, president of the association; J. B. Humphrey of Afton, vice-president; F. H. Dennis of Janesville, secretary and treasurer; W. T. Olson of Oshkosh, C. I. Hosgard of Oshkosh, T. Decker of Beloit, and John Collins of Porter.
The beet-growers' delegation presented amended contracts containing such provisions as the following: that the buying price of beets should be $4.75 a ton; that beet seed be furnished free by the factory; that the beets be weighed and tared at the station from which they are shipped; that all the freight charges be paid by the company. After a free discussion of all the various phases of the questions involved, the committee was informed by the manufacturers that their requests could not be granted. The local factory has already decided that it will provide for weighing at stations where 200 or more acres of the roots are raised and feels that it can make no further concessions. The possibility of competition with low priced Cuban sugar is looked upon as a constant menace by the sugar men and they are not disposed to stand for an increase in the cost of raw material.

Action Has Hurt Business
Capt. Davidson told the committee quite candidly that the action of the Rock county farmers in forming this organization for the purpose of compelling the factory to make concessions, has already worked considerable injury to the state by indefinitely sidetracking all projects for new factories in Wisconsin. The proposed new one at Madison had been abandoned for this reason and no other.
What Will Growers Do?
As to the attitude of the growers' association towards the stand taken by the company, President Burdick would make no predictions. A meeting of all members has been called at the Janesville, Y. M. C. A. building for Thursday afternoon, February 16, and at that time the report of the committee will be heard. There are many farmers who do not belong to this association and are not altogether in sympathy with its methods. These are mostly small growers who, albeit, are the most successful. It is to be hoped that the company will be enabled to secure the needed contracts this season. The closing of the factory would be a hard blow to the industrial prosperity both of city and county.

Factory Now Closed Down
While the local factory is now closed down and many of the employees have returned to their homes in Chicago, Dresden, Ontario, and elsewhere, there are a considerable number who are still in the city awaiting the advent of warmer weather when the machinery is to be thoroughly overhauled. The time between the finish of the last Dresden crop and the removal of the machinery from the factory was so brief that little attention could be given parts that were out of repair. There is now, therefore, two years' overhauling to be done and the factory will be a busy scene for some weeks after the cold spell is broken.

REGULATION OF AUCTION SALES

BECOMES VEXED QUESTION BEFORE CITY COUNCIL.

TOM MORRISSEY APPOINTED

As First of Three New Officers on Police Force—Janesville Accepts Offer of Free Waste Paper Cans.

In all particulars save one the findings of the fire and police commission in the recent examinations, which were filed with the city clerk last evening, corresponded with the forecast made by the Gazette. Contrary to expectations there was no recommendation that the three years' residence requirement be waived in the cases of George M. Appleby, Thomas D. Cosgrove, and J. M. Crandall who were believed to have qualified satisfactorily in every other respect. The first two of these gentlemen were mentioned as having stood high in the examinations, but further consideration of them as candidates for positions on the police force was disallowed by the statement that they were ineligible under the rule as to residents. Mr. Crandall's name was not mentioned. Chairman Schmidley of the fire and police committee of the council reported to that body the appointment by Marshal Comstock of Thomas Morrissey as one of the regular members of the police force. The report should have been made to the fire and police commission, as the approval of that body is necessary. It is, of course, a mere matter of formality in Officer Morrissey's case. He has been night patrolman on the east side for a number of months, being re-appointed from time to time in the manner of a special officer, and has given excellent satisfaction by his efficient service. The city marshal is to add two more officers to his force and the appointments will undoubtedly be announced in a short time.

Waste-Boxes for City.
When the council was called to order by Mayor Hutchinson last evening, Aldermen Jackman, Murray, and Schwartz were absent. The January city treasurer's and municipal court reports, and the bills were disposed of in the customary manner. The city clerk was instructed to draw an order on the treasurer for $7.50 in favor of S. E. Sparling, secretary of the League of Municipalities, for fifteen copies of the magazine and the city's dues for 1905. Pier, Neuwohner & Co. of Dubuque in a communication offered to place six large metal waste-paper boxes on the main thoroughfares of Janesville without cost to the city, providing the latter would agree to have them emptied as often as necessary and enter into a contract to retain them on the streets for three years or more. The concern derives its revenue from advertisements placed on the boxes. By an order this proposition and the conditions imposed were accepted. The placing of these boxes on the sidewalks will in all likelihood be followed by an ordinance making it a misdemeanor to throw waste-paper, fruit peelings, or other refuse on the streets.

Freight Franchise Matter.
No further action was taken on the proposed ordinance granting freight-carrying privileges to the R. B. & J. Interurban Ry. Co. The petition of F. D. Murdoch and ten other property owners on North Franklin, West Bluff, and Wall streets against the passage of this measure was received and placed on file. The highway committee asked for and was granted further time for the consideration of the city engineer's report on the real estate affected by the proposed extension of North street from Rockport to Jackson street. Permission was granted C. J. Jones to transfer the license of his saloon at No. 4 Corn Exchange to J. J. Kane, the bonds of the latter being found in due form. John Benson was appointed special police officer without pay for the term Feb. 4 to May 3. The bond of George M. Appleby as constable from the third ward was found to be in due form and accepted. By an order introduced by Alderman Schmidley the fire and police commission was authorized to purchase, at an expense not to exceed $60, a bath-tub and fixtures for the police headquarters in the city hall.

Auctions and Auctioneers

The same afternoon introduced a measure to amend section 1 of the ordinance of April 22, 1895, by inserting the phrase "except livestock" after the word "whatever" in the provision thereof which states that no one shall offer for sale any property, real or personal, without first obtaining a license, etc. The amendment was introduced by Alderman Dooley and was his first and second reading and the sponsor wished to have it advanced to its third reading and placed on passage under a suspension of the rules, but it was found that this could not be done with only six aldermen present. Alderman Dooley was therefore given special permission to hold a livestock auction on February 8. Alderman Matheson moved that an investigation of the methods of conducting business employed by the Big Four auction store at the corner of River and West Milwaukee streets and the contract this firm has with the city be made and results reported at the next meeting. The question has arisen as to whether or not the proprietors, Messrs. White and Young, are residents of this city. If they are non-residents and are selling goods belonging to non-residents they must pay into the city coffers ten per cent of the money accruing from their gross sales. At present they are paying an auctioneer's license fee of $50. If they are non-residents but are selling only their own goods, or those of other local merchants, they will not be liable to this ten per cent tax. The sum of $10 a day is exacted from the transient merchant who does not remain in the city six months, thereby subjecting himself to the regular tax on valuation of property levied by the assessors. This provision also appears not to apply. The ordinance providing for the auctioneer's license of $50 for an indefinite time which, it now appears, may be construed to mean a year, was passed in 1895. In all other instances, save the present one, it has been paid for brief sales extending over a period of a week or ten days. Alderman Merritt was delegated to make the investigation.

CHURCH CONTRACT SOON TO BE LET

Plans Considered at Quarterly Conference of Central Methodist Congregation Last Evening.

The quarterly conference of the Central Methodist church convened last evening to consider plans for the new church building to be erected at the corner of Franklin and Pleasant streets. Some of the architects who are figuring on the plans were not ready to report and the meeting was adjourned for two weeks. The sales committee was authorized to sell what is known as the Court Street Church block at the price offered last spring. It is expected that plans will be accepted and contracts let between now and the first of April for a $30,000 edifice.

DEBATING TEAM HAS BEEN CHOSEN

Will Represent the Janesville High School in Debate with Waukesha School.

Harvey Bailey, Paul Porter and Orville Swift were chosen last evening to compose the debating team that will represent the local high school in the Janesville-Waukesha debate. The method of selecting the speakers was the most satisfactory that could have been employed. Each society, the Forum and the Rusk Lyceum, after numerous debates and tryouts chose three speakers to represent their respective organizations. These six speakers prepared their discussions, which were handed in and marked for English, diction and thought, and last evening delivered by their authors. The speakers for the Forum were Lefroy Eller, William Spohn and Paul Porter and for the Lyceum, Jerome Davis, Harvey Bailey and Orville Swift. The speakers were allowed to choose the side which they wished of the Waukesha debate question (Resolved: That the closed shop policy as advocated by trades unions is justifiable) and all but two selected the negative, which side Janesville will uphold in the inter-scholastic debate. The errors who chose by the merits of the discussions were Bernard M. Palmer, W. S. Jeffris and Lavern W. Brooks. The debate with Waukesha will be held in that city sometime toward the end of March and the team will select their leader and start preparing their discussions immediately.

MAYFLOWER TO RISE FROM AN ICE GRAVE

Street Commissioner, Watson Entrusted with Task of Removing Gallant Scow from River Bottom.

Rock river being a highway in a certain restricted sense of the word, it devolves upon Street Commissioner Watson to remove all obstructions which may impede the lives and property of sailors and threaten the integrity of bridges which span the multitudinous waters. Last night the city council instructed him to raise and cart off the wreck of the "Mayflower" whose old hulk, stranded in mid-stream just above the railroad bridge, has long menaced navigation. Fear has entertained that when the spring freshet comes on it may be loosened from its moorings and hurled against the Fourth avenue bridge with a force that will cause that fragile structure to totter drunkenly and perhaps collapse, precipitating thousands of passengers into the savage flood below. That such a catastrophe may be averted, the street commissioner, armed with a pickaxe and wheelbarrow, will shortly repair to the scene of the sinking of Capt. Richard Griffith's gallant scow and exhumate the remains from their icy grave.

HOME TALENT IN CHARRED CORK

BRIGHT GALAXY OF LOCAL ENTERTAINERS IN PRACTICE.

WITH TAMBO AND BONES

Imperial Band Benefit on the Evening of the 28th Promises to Eclipse All Previous Efforts.

"These bones shall rise again!" The old tambo has been taken down from the dusty shelf and jokes of a long and honorable lineage are being revamped. All this in preparation for the return of amateur minstrelsy to its own. For many weeks past Dr. L. L. Leslie and his talented brethren have been working for the big show and now it is definitely announced that the black-face artists will appear before the footlights at the Myers on the evening of Tuesday, February 28, barring possible future contingencies which cannot at this time be foreseen.

Back to the Old Days

For they are to appear in the traditional burnt cork. During the few years past this has been out of fashion but again all the great minstrels have turned back to the methods of their illustrious predecessors. So George Paris, the interlocutor; and Harry Bliss, W. F. Cody, Dr. L. L. Leslie, and George Hatch, who will send out the laugh waves from the ends of the semi-circle will also display jet black visages to the admiring throng. Likewise the others in the cast: A. E. Rollins, Laverne Brooks, A. H. Bartlett, Claude Holloway, John Fletcher, Andrew Gibbons, E. E. Van Pool, Henry Cody, C. S. Buck, William Garbutt, John Baumann, Prof. Eastman, Frank Snyder, Art Baumann, and William Woods of Milwaukee, song and dance artist-wearing four gold medals handsomely embroidered with diamonds.

For Benefit of Band

The performance is to be given for the benefit of the Imperial band. The full musical organization of twenty-five pieces will appear in the first part of the program and the orchestra of ten will play during the olio. Many surprises are in store and some special features and effects never equaled on the local stage are promised. Dr. Leslie is directing the preparations and that alone is "nuff said."

Follow Each New Discovery of Science.

The great strides that medical science has made in the last few years is due to the germ theory. When the germ of a disease has been discovered, the doctors have not been slow in finding a drug to kill it. In a few years, it will be rare to find a bald-headed man or woman. The falling out of hair is due to a candidum germ, and now it has been discovered how to kill this germ. The remedy used is called Newbro's Herpeticide. Its success has been marvelous. Not a failure has been so far reported. Free is also a delightful hair dressing, free from oil or sticky substances. Try it and be convinced of its actual merit. Sold by leading druggists. THE MINORITY

By FREDERICK TREVOR HILL
Author of "The Case and Exceptions," etc.

(Copyright, 1904, by Frederick A. Stokes & Co.)

"I was telling the meeting just before you stepped in, Mr. Homans," he began, "that I'd heard you'd lost your job, but as some here didn't believe me—I looked at Kerrigan. I'm glad you're on hand to tell us the story yourself. Won't you step up and let's know what's happened, I guess we're all interested, ain't we?"

The audience applauded as Ben strode through the crowded room, and as he reached McMannis, the latter introduced himself in a loud tone of voice calculated to convince the spectators that the meeting was entirely accidental.

Then he invited Homans to tell his own story, and sitting down, lit a cigar.

"The facts are just this," began Homans. "I called on Kennard about whistle-time and put it to him that he let me have some of the horses shod over to Cutler's, instead of all of 'em at Bennett's. Bennett's not a union man, but I didn't see no reason to boycott Cutler 'cause he was. 'I discharge you!' he says. 'What for?' I asks. 'For tryin' to tell me who to employ,' he says. 'I'll have no union interference here.' 'I've been workin' for you some years,' I says. 'Well, you'll not work ten minutes more!' he says, and rings for the super to pay me off. And I heard him tell Barton to take on a swab whose name he had ready on a bit of paper in a book."

"An' Ol' lay a month's wages ye give him a lot av yur lip, Ben Homans, before ye got chucked," sang out Pat Mullin. "Shure, ivery man here knows yur jaw."

"What's the hell's difference does that make, Pat?" interrupted another man. "We know Bennett's no union man and Cutler is, and he don't get none of the work. If union men's not wanted here, we ought to know it."

"Who's the feller he's takin' on in your place, Ben?" asked "Pupsey" Knox, one of the younger men.

"You'll find out when the boss gets ready to tell you," Homans answered sneeringly. "Better ask him whose name's in the book to take your job, Pupsey. He's got 'em all ready, you bet, and they won't come from round here, either, I'm thinkin'."

"I move, Mr. Chairman," began one of the front benchers, rising to his feet. "I ain't no chairman," interrupted McMannis, in a surly tone, as he slouched back to his place at the door. The crowd laughed at the speaker, who remained standing.

"I move the meeting," he began again, "that we sign a petition asking Mr. Kennard to employ Cutler as well as Bennett. I know them both, and—"

"I amend the motion," began another man, standing up, "and I move we pass resolutions declaring we condemn the discharging of Mr. Ben Homans and—"

But Steve Kerrigan was on his feet, interrupting.

"I move we don't do nothing of the sort! The boss has got the right to say who he'll have and who he won't want. He pays the wages, and if he lays off Homans I don't think it's any of your business, or mine either, so long as he treats us right. But if anybody thinks it is, let him go and find out."

"You're satisfied, I suppose, to get chased to-morrow for attendin' this meeting?" sneered Homans.

"No, I ain't, and I ain't heard why you got chased from anybody except yourself," retorted Kerrigan.

"You'll find out by askin' the boss—I guess not!" answered Homans. "The word's passed, boys," he continued, addressing the whole room, "that no union men can stay here unless they keep their heads shut and their eyes too. You can take it or leave it."

The power that runs the stomach is the nerve force sent to it from the brain through the nerves. When the nerves are weak or exhausted the supply of energy is insufficient and the action of the stomach is impaired, and results in imperfect digestion—dyspepsia.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve increases nerve force. It strengthens and builds up nerve tissue, gives vigor to the nerves and muscles of the stomach; this produces a healthy activity.

Nerve ailments—the inflammation, heals the membranes, and makes the stomach strong and healthy. There is nothing that so quickly gives energy to the whole system as Restorative Nerve.

"I can't say enough for Dr. Miles' Nerve. I don't know what it will do for others, but it certainly cured me of stomach trouble, and now I am as well as I ever was. Two physicians failed to relieve me, but in three or four days after taking Nerve I was much relieved. Four bottles made me a sound man, at the cost of $4.00."

"THERE'S NO SAFETY FOR THE LABORING MAN."

visibility of closer organization. That's already proved, I think, but since I'm on my feet I want to say a word or two on what's happened here to-night. One of us has been discharged, and another says it ain't our business. Let's see about that. It ain't our business to care for anybody but ourselves? The man who says that will live to eat his words, if he don't starve before he gets round to 'em. I tell you each working-man's business is every other working-man's business. I tell you there's not one of you can be knocked down without hurting the others. What can any one of you do alone? Can you get wages raised, or hours shortened, or work lightened, or dangers lessened? Working-men acting together have done all these things, done 'em for each other and with each other, when nothing could have been done by individuals, and yet we're told to-night that the boss pays the wages and he has the right to say who he'll pay 'em to. I deny it! I deny it!

A ripple of applause greeted this defiant note, and the orator continued more fiercely.

"Just as soon as you stand by and see this man, or any man, turned down because he's a union member or favors union men, then I say you've begun to forge the first fetter for yourselves, and before you know it, they'll click upon your feet!"

McMannis, who had been punctuating his remarks with a swinging right arm and closed hand, brought his clenched fist down on the table with a crash which evoked a genuine burst of applause from his hearers.

"There's no safety for the laboring man," he continued, as the plaudits broke forth, and then waited with uplifted arm for them to subside. "I say, there's no safety for the laboring man outside his own ranks! Dissolve the unions to-morrow and what do you think would be the rate of wages? If you suppose Mr. Kennard would make no change? He'd have to do it or be undersold by all his competitors, and be ruined inside a year. There's no man in the world to-day that's good enough, or strong enough, or rich enough to protect the laboring man!"

A volley of applause drowned the crash of McMannis' fist.

"I tell you the unions have made the working-men of this country what they are to-day," he continued, "and they're the only power that can keep him where he is. The man who suffers another to be discharged because he favors them—"

"Ol' hov me doubts," interrupted Pat Mullin, "if Homans has the rights as the story at all. Shure, if 't was me wuz the boss, he'd been hunted long ago."

"I move a committee be appointed to wait on Kennard and ask him to explain Ben Homans' discharge, and report accordin'," spoke up "Pupsey" Knox, with the glint of a recitation, and the consciousness of newly discovered power.

"Second the motion!" ripped out another of the younger element.

The motion was quickly put by Mr. McMannis, and if it was not carried by acclamation the protesting voices were too feeble to reach the temporary chairman.

"I suppose the sense of the meeting is for the chair to appoint the committee," began McMannis, looking about the room for confirmation, which he received wherever he looked, "and with such understanding," he went on, "the chair appoints Mr. Pat Mullin."

"Ol' be damned if ye do!" interrupted the appointee, rising to his feet, "an' if any man miscalls me—"

"Aw, shut up, Pat!"

"Divil a bit!"

"Don't name him—he's no good!"

"He's a better man than you'll ever be!"

"Aw dry up, Kerrigan!"

"He's dried up already!"

"Since Mr. Mullin refuses to act," shouted McMannis, making himself heard above the din and restoring quiet, "Mr. Mullin having declined, the chair appoints Mr. Kerrigan and—"

"The hell you do! Not on your life!" broke in Kerrigan.

"Mr. Kerrigan and Pupsey Knox," continued McMannis.

"No, you don't," contradicted that gentleman. "I'm not gettin' myself chased for any Ben Homans."

"He's scared."

"You're a liar!"

"Ye're all a damned silly pack av fools!" bellowed Mullin, as he elbowed himself out of the hall.

McMannis looked about the room with a shrug of his shoulders, and a gesture which was at once an admission of the helplessness of the situation, and an invitation for suggestions. They came after a somewhat noisy interval.

"I guess none of us wants to get too prominent," observed an individual leaning against the wall, "and I guess Homans don't want nobody chased for inquiry" after him. So I move that the chairman, bein' an impartial party an' havin' nothing to lose, act for us as this committee."

"Second the motion," sang out half a dozen voices from different parts of the room.

"If anybody wants to debate this motion," announced McMannis, "I surrender the chair."

But no one apparently cared to debate it, and Peter McMannis was appointed the committee of one, so easily, that he smiled as he thought of the needlessly elaborate plans he had formulated to accomplish the result.

That the Fates were favoring him Peter McMannis knew, but he failed to appreciate at once the full extent of their good will. Even while he sat in Kennard's hallway, the next morning, growing angrier and angrier with every minute's delay, he little realized the trend of events. His card had been delivered soon after the boss had reached his office, and five minutes, ten minutes, twenty minutes, half an hour had slipped by without result. Then he stopped a hurrying messenger and sent in a second card, which elicited no reply. It was more annoying than being sent from pillar to post in Mr. Harlan's labyrinth. There at least he received some attention; here he was utterly ignored. Messengers and clerks walked in and out of Kennard's room, and once or twice mechanics favored the committee man with a grin as they passed the visitor's bench. One went so far as to ask him how things were progressing, and McMannis swore in answer, and rising began to pace impatiently up and down.

At last the door swung open, and the committee of one found himself face to face with a tall, youthful-looking man, dressed for traveling and carrying a valise.

"You wish to speak to me?"

The tone was particularly brisk and cheerful, and McMannis' answer sounded the more surly in contrast.

"I want to see Mr. Kennard. I've sent in my card twice."

"I got them, I'm Mr. Kennard. Please be as brief as you can. I'm in a hurry."

"My business can't be talked out here—Anyhow, it won't be."

McMannis' face had an ugly look, and his tone was menacing.

"Might I ask what your business is?"

"I represent the employees of this factory as a committee of inquiry. That's what my—"

Kennard looked at the man in surprise.

"Why, you're not employed here," he exclaimed, "how can you represent my men?"

"Well, I do represent your men, as you call 'em," retorted McMannis, with a sneer, "and I guess that's enough for you, ain't it?"

BY REV. FATHER PONTUR

How a Young Woman of His Parish Was Cured of Consumption by Father John's Medicine.

Writing from LeFargeville, N. Y., Rev. Fr. Joseph Pontur, of St. Joseph's Parish, said: "One of my parishioners, almost despondent of ever getting cured, given up by the doctors as a consumptive, upon my firm advice is using Father John's Medicine and since has been constantly improving to the great joy of her parents and friends."

Again four months later, Rev. Fr. Pontur writes: "The young woman referred to in my former letter, who was given up by all the doctors as a consumptive, continues to improve wonderfully by using Father John's Medicine."

Remember, Father John's Medicine is not a patent medicine, but the prescription of the eminent specialist who prescribed it for the late Rev. Father John O'Brien by whom it was recommended and from whom it derived its name. It is free from opium, morphine or any of the poisonous nerve-deadening drugs or weakening stimulants upon which the majority of patent medicines, so-called cough syrups and balsams depend for their temporary effect, and which are dangerous—you are warned against them. 50 years in use.

ACCUSER MAY BE EXPELLED

CONTRADICTORY TESTIMONY

Witnesses Fail to Corroborate the Charges. When Called Before the Committee of Investigators—Danger of Expulsion.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 7.—Representative Frank D. Comerford had his day in court yesterday before the legislative investigating committee. At the end of twelve hours continuous taking of testimony he had failed to produce evidence supporting any of his charges, with the possible exception of that alleging bribery in the Democratic caucus.

In this case he produced Representative W. S. Lorton of Jacksonville, who swore that Richard Kinsella of Springfield, a Democratic politician, had offered him a bribe of $200 to vote for Isaac Craig of Mattoon for minority leader.

Kinsella took the stand and swore he offered to bet Representative Lorton $200 that neither James Gray nor Thomas Tippit would be elected minority leader.

He denied positively that any offer of money had been made.

With that, the matter stood the one statement against the other.

Witnesses Are Backward.

In every other case in which Comerford undertook to produce witnesses they turned against him and left him high and dry on a hard-bed of denials.

At 11 o'clock last night the committee adjourned to ask the house of representatives for two days' more time, during which the evidence will be prepared for submission to the other legislators, such additional evidence as may be forthcoming will be examined, and a recommendation regarding Mr. Comerford will be drafted.

It would appear that the young man is in great danger of leaving the legislature. If his seat is saved it will be because he seeks refuge in the "past tense" and asserts his charges were against other legislators and not the present one. His seat may be saved also because in the matter of the Democratic caucus the investigators have the word of one of their fellow members of the legislature that the charge of attempted bribery is true.

State's Attorney Listens.

State's Attorney Hatch of Sangamon county sat through the hearings and took in the testimony, but all talk of a grand jury investigation probably will be stopped now. The evidence would not seem to warrant it.

Comerford's case was doubly difficult, as all bribery charges are, because one of his witnesses challenged the truth of the other, and when he personally made the allegations they challenged him.

No corroborative evidence could be presented to bolster up any of the accusations and Comerford probably will have to bear the brunt of the thing.

That the legislature may accept the "past tense" plea, and on the theory that he talked about other general assemblies, and not about the present, may deal leniently with him, is to be considered, but unless a great wave of clemency sweeps over the house he is not apt to find much mercy.

There Remains Uninvestigated

a statement which Comerford touched upon at the morning session and told completely at the night session. That relates to the rumor that a "certain gentleman of Chicago" was about to be held up for $25,000 or $30,000 this session on a "certain piece of legislation."

Gives Source of Rumor.

In the morning Comerford said a congressman from Chicago had written to him stating there was a rumor in Washington to the effect such a "holdup" would be undertaken. At night he said this congressman was Henry T. Rainey, the Democratic member from Carrollton.

Congressman Rainey wrote to him asking if there were a man at the Auditorium or Auditorium Annex named Corrigan. Then the congressman wanted to know if a racing bill had been introduced in the legislature. He said he had heard rumors Corrigan was to be held up for $30,000 by a racing bill introduced in the Illinois legislature. The reference evidently was to Edward Corrigan.

There is at least one racing bill in the legislature. It provides for the elimination from the statutes of the exception made in favor of state fair associations and incorporated race-track associations allowing them to conduct bookmaking. The exemption already has been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, it is said, and therefore the pertinency of the charge to this particular piece of legislation is not understood fully.

Whatever other investigation is to be made will have to be made before Thursday morning, when the inquirers will report.

Calls Mitchell Liar.

While the examination has been short on information substantiating serious charges, it has been full of "human interest." Many and various interesting conversations have been related in detail.

Mr. Comerford had been an extremely active young man all day. He led the committee a merry chase and in some instances tested the enduring powers of their good nature. He called Representative Benjamin Mitchell a liar without any hesitancy or ornamentation.

He stormed when some evidence was developed showing he had bought four pints of wine in rapid succession on one occasion and had become "wabbly."

He has had the benefit of an attorney, Otis Westner endeavoring to guide his answers and his questions whenever Comerford would pay any attention to him.

Once or twice he jumped for his hat and coat, and announced his immediate intention of departing hence from the room in indignation and wrath. On other occasions he was told he would be ejected if he didn't behave himself and "sit down."

Comerford has seen the practical finish of the examination and verily believes he has "made good," which is more than the investigators say.

Comerford steadfastly has refused to tell how the report of the speech got in the newspapers, and he has stood by the printed accounts, in spite of the fact he admits some inaccuracies, the misuse of the tense being one.

Representative M. L. McKinley of Cook county, who was mentioned in the speech and who started the inquiry by the resolution, has been exonerated, even by Comerford himself.

Cole and King Are Witnesses.

As a windup to the day of cross questioning the investigators have had George E. Cole and Hoyt King of the Legislative Voters' league on the stand. They had left Chicago before the committee and Comerford agreed they would not be needed.

When the committee decided to limit the investigation to what concerned the Forty-fourth assembly, Mr. Cole's possible usefulness faded away, but the two Chicago men were on the train then, and they came along.

"Have any reports been made to you, Mr. Cole," asked Representative Rainaker, "which would indicate corruption on the part of this legislature?"

"No, sir," said Mr. Cole, emphatically.

"Do you know of any corruption among members of the Forty-fourth assembly?"

"No, sir," said Mr. Cole, emphatically.

Mr. King's testimony was to the same effect.

Refuses to Pass on Honesty.

Comerford then put a new line of questions up to Cole. "Do you consider Benjamin Mitchell an honest and reputable member of the legislature?" he asked.

"I decline to answer," replied Cole with great promptness.

"Do you consider Anton Cermak an honest man?"

"I decline to answer."

"Do you consider Isaac Craig an honest man?"

"I decline to answer."

Cole's voice was going up a peg at every reply.

"Do you consider M. L. McKinley an honest man?"

Here the committee intervened and stopped the line of inquiry. With the list of witnesses exhausted the committee agreed to ask for more time and prepare to report Thursday morning.

CHECK ON POSTMASTERS.

Those Who Paid Their Salaries Must Show Cause.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The postmaster general is empowered not only to fix the salary of a postmaster, on the basis of the gross receipts of his post-office, as provided by law, but also to go behind the receipts to determine whether they were obtained properly, according to a decision rendered by the Comptroller of the Treasury Tracewell. The opinion affects many postmasters charged with padding receipts to raise their salaries, by soliciting or having their friends solicit business to their postoffices that belongs to the limits of neighboring offices. The case decided was that of Postmaster Charles Burrows of Rutherford, N. J., who, it is charged, solicited large orders for stamps from adjoining towns and cities; filled orders for New York concerns for return postal cards and paid for the printing out of his own pockets, and supplied large orders of stamps from adjoining towns and cities, sometimes at his own expense and at other times at government expense.

Argues for New Judges.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Senator Culom appeared before the senate judiciary committee to advocate his bill to reorganize the judicial districts of Illinois. He presented figures showing that with the increase in district and circuit courts proposed in his bill, Illinois would not have her court facilities in just proportion to her population, and would have inferior service as compared with that given in half the states of the Union. He explained how the business of the circuit and district courts had enormously increased, making it necessary to summon the assistance of outside judges, the services of from one to two of these outside judges being necessary in Chicago alone. The senator's argument made a strong impression on the committee, and he, with Senator Hopkins, is now working to remove the opposition which unexpectedly developed in the committee. Both are encouraged to expect favorable action on the bill.

Indorse President's Policy.

Washington, Feb. 7.—A delegation representing the Illinois Manufacturers' association called on the president Monday to tell him that they are with him in the matter of railroad ratemaking, and that they favor legislation along the lines suggested in the president's message even if it should be necessary to call an extra session of congress. The party consisted of John E. Wilder, president, and John M. Glenn, secretary of the association, and O. B. McGlasson, L. C. Blanding, Nathaniel French and J. D. Diefenbaugh, who come from Chicago, Moline and Monmouth, Ill. The delegation gave a dinner to the Illinois senators and representatives, at which the latter gave pledges to do all in their power to aid railroad rate legislation.
